a systematic theology of the christian faith brief in extent but nonetheless profound and broad in compass professor tanner s bold vision centres on the idea of god as gift giver ecumenical in orientation and informed by an extraordinary knowledge of the broad history of christian thought the book treats a range of topics of current interest from human agency and freedom and conflict and process in human affairs to failure and mortality an exciting and challenging work written to be accessible to students as well as to scholars introduction jesus the theological structure of things the shape of human life the end praise for jesus humanity and the trinity tanner s conception of god s transcendence informs a robust view of incarnation one that amplifies the gift centered nature of salvation and one that in addition preserves both the divinity and humanity of jesus in a non truncated way takes seriously the positive content of christian doctrine and its implications for understanding the whole of life research news opportunities in science and theology bloomsbury publishing franz dünzl gives an account of the formation of the doctrine of the trinity in a narrative based on contemporary sources as he remarks in the preface he wants to describe the human struggle over the truth of the christian image of god and as far as possible let the early christians speak for themselves his main concern is to describe the dynamic of the disputes over the theology of the trinity in a vivid way which is easy to follow pointing out the foundations of the doctrine and the decisive shifts in its development he tries to see the often bitter discussion not as a barren dispute but as an evolutionary process in which the rivalry is a necessary and positive factor in moving the debate forward after an introduction to the problem the book describes the beginning of christology and the first models of the relationship between father and son it then describes the controversies leading up to the council of nicaea which are discussed at length going on to show how nicaea didn t settle the question and continuing the account up to the council of constantinople in 381 it brings out the political influences which governed this second stage of the discussion in an illuminating way a survey and bibliography round the book off practical theology for the church today the trinity is one of the most essential doctrines of the christian faith as it reveals a magnificent truth about god that he is one god eternally existing as three distinct persons while christians often struggle to find the right words to describe the union of father son and spirit the bible gives clarity concerning the triune god s activity in nature creation grace redemption and glory reward in the second installment of the short studies in systematic theology series theologian scott swain examines the trinity presenting its biblical foundations systematic theological structure and practical relevance for the church today a christian view of prayer is founded on a unique insight god is already communicating and inviting us to participate christ is already praying for us and the holy spirit is already bringing our prayers to expression our prayers are a response hearing what god is saying and daring to speak from our hearts prayer in the trinity is an invitation to participate in the conversation of prayer most of us have trouble praying and for a very good reason we seem to know that theologically prayer is impossible who are we to talk to god how can our words mean anything to god all the great theologians of prayer have recognized this we cannot pray but god is already doing what we cannot do and god is inviting us to participate we cannot initiate prayer but we can join in listening and responding to what god is already doing the new testament is very clear in saying that jesus christ prayed more than that he continues to pray for us even now interceding on our behalf on the basis of his prayers for us our prayers for ourselves and for each other are lifted up and offered effectively on our behalf christ makes prayer possible likewise the holy spirit intercedes for us probing the depths of our hidden selves and raising our deep yearnings to awareness and expression in the prayers of christ and through the intercessions of the spirit god is already communicating engaging us in what we experience as prayer for this reason we can see prayer as something that is already going on it is not something we initiate it is something we are invited to join prayer in the trinity explores at length the way the new testament speaks of god and prayer it draws on theologians from origen to moltmann offering up an invitation to pray grounded in a distinctly christian view of prayer
